

慶應義塾大学 商学部 英語

自習プリント

英語が得意な人のための「私大難関本番レベル」― 株主第一主義の盛衰を読み解く

2026 年 5 月 26 日

高校 3 年～既卒 (難関私大文系志望)

英語 (慶應 商学部・本番水準)

Trillion 塾

第1章 (例題 — 慶應 商学部レベル・5 分)

慶應商は 90 分・大問 6 題。本問は長文 1 題で 20-25 分相当 (商学部の典型ブロック)。

【例題】(慶應義塾大学 商学部 入試 典型形式・改題)

Read the passage and answer the questions that follow.

For nearly half a century, the dominant theory of the public corporation in the English-speaking world was articulated in a brief essay by the economist Milton Friedman, published in the New York Times Magazine in 1970. The corporation, Friedman argued, had a single legitimate goal: to make money for its shareholders within the rules set by law and basic ethical custom. Managers who diverted corporate resources to social purposes — to environmental protection, to the welfare of workers, to the support of the local community — were spending money that did not belong to them, and were exercising a political authority for which they had not been elected. The proper place for public-spirited action was the personal donations of individual citizens, or the legitimate decisions of democratic government, not the executive suites of private firms.

The argument was startling at the time and powerful in its simplicity. It seemed to follow directly from basic principles of property rights: shareholders owned the firm, managers were their agents, and an agent who used the principal's resources for purposes the principal had not authorized was guilty of a kind of misappropriation. Within a decade, the Friedman view had moved from provocation to orthodoxy. Business schools taught it; corporate boards invoked it; influential lawyers and economists built on it an entire theory of corporate governance organized around the maximization of shareholder value.

Yet during the same decades in which this consensus consolidated, evidence began to accumulate that the single-minded pursuit of shareholder value did not, in fact, produce the broadly beneficial outcomes its defenders had predicted. Productive investment fell relative to share repurchases; wages stagnated as profits rose; financial crises, traceable in part to incentives that rewarded short-term gains over institutional stability, struck with increasing frequency. By the early 2020s, even some of the orthodoxy's most prominent former defenders had begun to ask whether the model required serious revision.

The most visible institutional sign of this shift came in 2019, when the Business Roundtable — an association of leading American chief executives that had, since 1997, formally endorsed shareholder primacy — issued a new statement of corporate purpose that explicitly placed customers, employees, suppliers, communities, and shareholders on what it described as comparable footing. Critics dismissed the statement as a public-relations exercise; supporters greeted it as an overdue acknowledgement that the corporation served multiple constituencies. What both sides accepted was that the older, simpler doctrine no longer enjoyed the unchallenged authority it had once possessed.

The intellectual case for the revision rests on a recognition that the Friedman argument depended on assumptions that subsequent experience has eroded. It assumed, first, that the costs corporations imposed on others — pollution, financial instability, the depletion of social trust — were either small or could be priced through external regulation. It assumed, second, that the shareholders to whom the firm answered were long-term owners with an interest in the firm's continuing health, rather than short-term traders for whom a quarterly result was the relevant horizon. It assumed, third, that the boundaries between corporate power and democratic government were sharp enough that the former could be safely instructed to ignore considerations the latter would address. None of these assumptions, defenders of the revision argue, looks as secure today as it did in 1970.

Critics of the revisionist view have not been silent. They contend that asking managers to balance the interests of multiple constituencies — when those interests inevitably conflict — gives those managers a degree of unaccountable discretion that the original doctrine was specifically designed to prevent. If a chief executive can justify almost any decision by appeal to one constituency or another, the disciplining force of clear ownership claims is weakened, and the door is opened to a kind of corporate self-dealing that the older doctrine would have ruled out of court.

The argument is far from settled, and may never be settled in the abstract. What seems clear is that the question of what the corporation is for has returned to the center of serious debate after a long period in which one answer had appeared so obvious as to need no defence. Whether the next half century will see the consolidation of a new orthodoxy, or merely the persistence of a more open-ended pluralism, will depend less on philosophical argument than on what kinds of firms, and what kinds of failures, the coming decades produce.

Q1. According to the first paragraph, what was Milton Friedman's central argument about the corporation?

- ① That the corporation should be owned by the government.
- ② That the corporation's only legitimate goal is to make money for its shareholders within the rules of law and basic ethical custom.
- ③ That managers should personally donate their salaries to charity.
- ④ That corporations should be abolished entirely.

Q2. According to the second paragraph, on what foundational principles did the Friedman view rest?

- ① On principles of religious morality.
- ② On principles of property rights: shareholders owned the firm, managers were their agents, and unauthorized use of the principal's resources amounted to misappropriation.
- ③ On principles of socialist economics.
- ④ On the rules of international diplomacy.

Q3. What evidence began to accumulate during the same decades that the Friedman consensus consolidated?

- ① That productive investment rose dramatically while share repurchases declined.
- ② That single-minded pursuit of shareholder value did not produce the broadly beneficial outcomes its defenders had predicted, with productive investment falling, wages stagnating, and financial crises striking more frequently.
- ③ That socialist economies outperformed all market economies.
- ④ That managers always acted in the public interest regardless of incentives.

Q4. Why does the author cite the Business Roundtable's 2019 statement?

- ① To prove that Friedman's view has been mathematically refuted.
- ② As the most visible institutional sign that shareholder primacy no longer enjoyed unchallenged authority, even within the American business elite.
- ③ To recommend that all corporations imitate that specific statement.
- ④ To indicate that public relations is now more important than profits.

Q5. Which of the following is NOT cited as an assumption underlying the Friedman argument that subsequent experience has eroded?

- ① That costs imposed on others were either small or priceable through regulation.
- ② That shareholders were long-term owners rather than short-term traders.
- ③ That corporate power and democratic government were sharply distinct.
- ④ That international trade should be entirely abolished.

Q6. Which of the following best summarizes the author's overall conclusion?

- ① Friedman's view has been definitively refuted and the new orthodoxy is fully established.
- ② The question of what the corporation is for has returned to serious debate; whether a new orthodoxy will consolidate or pluralism will persist depends less on philosophical argument than on the kinds of firms and failures the coming decades produce.
- ③ Corporations should ignore all stakeholders other than shareholders.
- ④ Government regulation alone can solve all corporate-governance problems.

企業統治論の半世紀 — Friedman 主流から多元主義への揺らぎ

著者: 答えは「次の半世紀の企業と失敗」次第 — pluralism も可能

図 1-1 50 年間の paradigm shift — 単一目的 → 多元的目的への揺らぎ

第2章 (解法の全体方針と武器整理・3 分)

商学エッセイは「主流説 → 制度化 → 反証データ → 制度的転換 → 理論的根拠 → 批判 → 開かれた結論」の 7 段論法。

【ジャンル分析】

本文は典型的な (A) corporate-governance essay。著者は 7 段かけて、Friedman doctrine の盛衰を 50 年間の経済史として描き、最終的に「答えは政治哲学ではなく実際の企業の振る舞い次第」という pragmatic な結論で締める。

【本問に必要な 4 つの武器】

- ① (A) 理論 → データ → 制度変化 の連鎖 (1970 Friedman → 2000s 反証 → 2019 BRT)
- ② (B) assumptions の崩壊 を読む (第 5 段の 3 つの前提)
- ③ (C) 経営学用語の文脈推測 — "shareholder primacy" "stakeholder" "orthodoxy" "agent / principal"
- ④ (D) 著者の立場 = 中立的観察者と読む

【各設問の戦略】

Q1 (Friedman 説) → 第 1 段 "single legitimate goal ... shareholders"

Q2 (理論的基礎) → 第 2 段 "property rights ... agent ... misappropriation"

Q3 (反証データ) → 第 3 段 "productive investment fell ... wages stagnated"

Q4 (BRT 引用目的) → 第 4 段 "no longer enjoyed the unchallenged authority"

Q5 (NOT 設問) → 第 5 段の 3 assumptions リストから外れる選択肢

Q6 (全体結論) → 最終段 "will depend less on philosophical argument than on what kinds of firms"

第3章 (Q1 + Q2 — Friedman 説 + 理論的基礎・8 分)

Friedman 論の内容と論理的基礎を続けて聞く。

【Q1 設問】 What was Milton Friedman's central argument?

★ 第 1 段の Friedman 論

"The corporation, Friedman argued, had a (A) single legitimate goal: to make money for its shareholders within the rules set by law and basic ethical custom."

★ Q1 paraphrase

本文 "single legitimate goal: to make money for its shareholders within the rules"

選択肢② "the corporation's only legitimate goal is to make money for its shareholders within the rules of law and basic ethical custom"

→ 直接一致。

【Q1 正解】 ② That the corporation's only legitimate goal is to make money for its shareholders within the rules of law and basic ethical custom.

【Q2 設問】 On what foundational principles did the Friedman view rest?

★ 第 2 段の論理的基礎

"It seemed to follow directly from basic principles of (A) property rights: shareholders owned the firm, managers were their (B) agents, and an agent who used the principal's resources for purposes the principal had not authorized was guilty of a kind of (C) misappropriation."

★ Q2 paraphrase

本文 "property rights ... agents ... misappropriation"

選択肢② "principles of property rights: shareholders owned the firm, managers were their agents, and unauthorized use of the principal's resources amounted to misappropriation"

→ 直接一致。

【Q2 正解】 ② On principles of property rights: shareholders owned the firm, managers were their agents, and unauthorized use of the principal's resources amounted to misappropriation.

💡 商学用語: principal-agent 関係。エージェンシー理論 (agency theory) の核心。Jensen & Meckling (1976) によって体系化され、80 年代以降の経営学の標準枠組み。

第4章 (Q3 — 反証データ設問・5 分)

「主流説への反証」を読む。第 3 段のデータ列挙。

【設問】 What evidence began to accumulate during the same decades?

★ 第 3 段の反証データ

"evidence began to accumulate that the single-minded pursuit of shareholder value (A) did not, in fact, produce the broadly beneficial outcomes its defenders had predicted."

具体例 3 つ:

- (i) "Productive investment fell relative to share repurchases"
- (ii) "wages stagnated as profits rose"
- (iii) "financial crises, traceable in part to incentives that rewarded short-term gains over institutional stability"

★ paraphrase 対応

本文 "did not ... produce the broadly beneficial outcomes ... productive investment fell ... wages stagnated ... financial crises"

選択肢② "single-minded pursuit of shareholder value did not produce the broadly beneficial outcomes ... with productive investment falling, wages stagnating, and financial crises striking more frequently"

→ 3 例すべて対応。

★ 誤答分析

- ・ ① "productive investment rose ... share repurchases declined" → 本文と (A) 正反対。
- ・ ③ "socialist economies outperformed all market economies" → (B) 本文に体制比較なし。
- ・ ④ "managers always acted in the public interest" → 本文と (C) 逆方向。

【正解】 ② That single-minded pursuit of shareholder value did not produce the broadly beneficial outcomes its defenders had predicted, with productive investment falling, wages stagnating, and financial crises striking more frequently.

第5章 (Q4 + Q5 — BRT 引用 + NOT 設問・10 分)

「制度的転換の証拠 + 理論前提の崩壊」を続けて聞く。

【Q4 設問】 Why does the author cite the Business Roundtable's 2019 statement?

★ 第 4 段の論理

"The most visible institutional sign of this shift came in 2019, when the Business Roundtable ... issued a new statement of corporate purpose that explicitly placed customers, employees, suppliers, communities, and shareholders on what it described as comparable footing."

"What both sides accepted was that (A) the older, simpler doctrine no longer enjoyed the unchallenged authority it had once possessed."

★ Q4 paraphrase

本文 "most visible institutional sign of this shift ... no longer enjoyed the unchallenged authority"

選択肢② "the most visible institutional sign that shareholder primacy no longer enjoyed unchallenged authority, even within the American business elite"

→ 直接対応。

【Q4 正解】 ② As the most visible institutional sign that shareholder primacy no longer enjoyed unchallenged authority, even within the American business elite.

【Q5 設問】 Which of the following is NOT cited as an assumption that subsequent experience has eroded?

★ 第 5 段の 3 assumptions

"It assumed, first, that (A) the costs corporations imposed on others — pollution, financial instability, the depletion of social trust — were either small or could be priced through external regulation."

"It assumed, second, that (B) the shareholders to whom the firm answered were long-term owners with an interest in the firm's continuing health, rather than short-term traders."

"It assumed, third, that (C) the boundaries between corporate power and democratic government were sharp enough that the former could be safely instructed to ignore considerations the latter would address."

★ 選択肢と照合

- ・ ① "costs imposed on others ... priced through regulation" → 根拠 (A) 下線A : ○
- ・ ② "shareholders were long-term owners" → 根拠 (B) 下線A : ○
- ・ ③ "corporate power and democratic government were sharply distinct" → 根拠 (C) 下線A : ○
- ・ ④ "international trade should be entirely abolished" → (B) 本文に貿易の言及なし

【正解】 ④ That international trade should be entirely abolished.

💡 NOT 設問の鉄則: 3 つの assumptions を箇条書きでメモしてから選択肢と照合。本問のように「国際貿易」「政治体制」のような(A) 本文の関心外のテーマが罠の典型。

第6章 (Q6 — Main Idea 設問 + 関連話題・10 分)

商学エッセイの結論は「pragmatic な開かれた結論」型。

【設問】 Which of the following best summarizes the author's overall conclusion?

★ 最終段の精読

"The argument is (A) far from settled, and may never be settled in the abstract. What seems clear is that (B) the question of what the corporation is for has returned to the center of serious debate after a long period in which one answer had appeared so obvious as to need no defence."

"Whether the next half century will see the consolidation of a new orthodoxy, or merely the persistence of a more open-ended pluralism, will (C) depend less on philosophical argument than on what kinds of firms, and what kinds of failures, the coming decades produce."

→ 主旨 3 要素:

- ①議論は再開された (Friedman 一元支配は終わった)
- ②結論は哲学的議論では決まらない
- ③実際の企業の振る舞いと失敗が答えを決める

★ 選択肢②との対応

"the question of what the corporation is for has returned to serious debate; whether a new orthodoxy will consolidate or pluralism will persist depends less on philosophical argument than on the kinds of firms and failures the coming decades produce"

→ 3 要素すべて含む。

【正解】 ② The question of what the corporation is for has returned to serious debate; whether a new orthodoxy will consolidate or pluralism will persist depends less on philosophical argument than on the kinds of firms and failures the coming decades produce.

★ 関連話題 — 慶應商進学後への接続

・ (A) Milton Friedman "The Social Responsibility of Business Is to Increase Its Profits" (NYT Magazine, 1970)

・ (B) Jensen & Meckling "Theory of the Firm" (1976) — agency theory の古典

・ (C) R. Edward Freeman "Strategic Management: A Stakeholder Approach" (1984) — stakeholder 理論

・ (D) Lynn Stout "The Shareholder Value Myth" (2012) — revisionist 代表作

・ (A) Business Roundtable (2019) "Statement on the Purpose of a Corporation"

・ (B) Larry Fink (BlackRock CEO) の年次書簡 (2018-) — ESG 投資の機関化

★ 大学進学後への接続

1 年次: 経営学原理・会計学・経済学

2-3 年次: 経営戦略ゼミ / コーポレートガバナンスゼミ / ファイナンスゼミ

卒論候補: 日本企業の ESG 経営の実証分析 / 株主資本主義 vs ステークホルダー資本主義 / 内部留保と賃金停滞

第7章 (商学部英語 攻略のコツ・5 分)

慶應商長文を完答するための 5 つの技術。

【コツ 1】 7 段論法 (理論 → 制度化 → 反証 → 制度転換 → 前提崩壊 → 批判 → 開かれた結論) を予測

商学エッセイは「理論 ↔ 制度 ↔ データ」の三角関係。各段がどれを担うか識別。

【コツ 2】 経営学者・経済学者の固有名詞

- ・ (A) Friedman / Coase / Williamson — シカゴ学派・取引費用論
- ・ (B) Porter / Mintzberg / Drucker — 経営戦略の古典
- ・ (C) Jensen / Meckling / Fama — agency theory / efficient market
- ・ (D) Freeman / Stout / Mayer — stakeholder 理論の現代論者

【コツ 3】 商学頻出語の文脈推測

shareholder / stakeholder / agency / principal / fiduciary / orthodoxy / discretion / repurchase / quarterly / pluralism

【コツ 4】 誤答パターン 4 種 (商学版)

- ・ (A) 極端化: definitively refuted / fully established / entirely abolished / ignore all
- ・ (B) 政府絶対主義: government regulation alone can solve — 商学エッセイは市場と政府の両方を視野に
- ・ (C) 論点ずれ: 国際貿易・体制比較・宗教 — 企業統治論の範囲外
- ・ (D) 逆方向: 主流説と反対説を取り違える

【コツ 5】 時間配分 (慶應商 90 分・大問 6 題)

長文には (A) 20-25 分 を上限。複数長文の場合は配分注意。

【最後にひとつ】

慶應商の英語は (A) 語学試験 であると同時に (B) 経営学リテラシー試験。本問の shareholder primacy 論は、入学後に学ぶ経営戦略・会計・ファイナンスの核心テーマ。

第8章 (類題チャレンジ・10 分) [10 点]

本講義の手法を応用する 5 問。

(類題 1) 本文中の "shareholder primacy" の意味として最も近いものを選びなさい。

- ① 株主の利益を最優先する企業統治の原理
- ② 従業員代表を取締役に置く制度
- ③ 経営者の報酬を抑える政策
- ④ 国家による株式市場の管理

(類題 2) 本文の "agent / principal" 関係が示唆するものとして最も適切なものを選びなさい。

- ① 経営者 (agent) が株主 (principal) の代理として行動する関係
- ② 教師と生徒の関係
- ③ 大使と国家の関係
- ④ 弁護士と裁判官の関係

(類題 3) 本文中で Business Roundtable が引用される役割として最も適切なものを選びなさい。

- ① 1997 年から shareholder primacy を支持してきた米国主要企業 CEO の団体として、2019 年に立場を転換
- ② Friedman の論文を最初に出版した雑誌
- ③ 国際労働機関の下部組織
- ④ ESG 投資の認証機関

(類題 4) 本文の "share repurchases" (自社株買い) が示唆するものとして最も適切なものを選びなさい。

- ① 設備投資ではなく株主への還元を優先する企業行動の象徴
- ② 新規上場時の手続き

③ 労働組合との交渉手段

④ 従業員持株会の制度

(類題 5) 本文の論理構成として最も近いものを選びなさい。

① Friedman 主流説 → 制度化 (B-school 教科書) → 反証データ (投資/賃金/金融危機) → 制度転換 (BRT 2019) → 前提崩壊 → 批判 → 開かれた結論

② 結論先出し → 根拠列挙のみ

③ 賛成意見の単純な列挙

④ 歴史的説明のみで結論なし

第9章 (まとめ・宿題・5 分)

今日の核心整理と慶應商本番に向けた宿題

【本日の核心 5 か条】

- ① 商学エッセイは (A) 「理論 ↔ 制度 ↔ データ」の 7 段論法。各段の担当を識別。
- ② (B) Friedman → Jensen/Meckling → Freeman → Stout の系譜を頭に。
- ③ (C) shareholder primacy / stakeholder theory / agency theory は経営学の三大用語。
- ④ NOT 設問は「(D) 本文の関心外テーマ」(国際貿易・宗教等) が罣。
- ⑤ 主旨設問は (A) pragmatic な開かれた結論 を選ぶ。「definitively refuted / fully established」は罣。

【宿題】

- ① 本講義の Q1-Q6 を見ないで本文だけ読み直し、自分で 6 問の設問を作成。
- ② 類題 5 問を解き直し、本文 7 段の各段にひと言タイトルを書き出す。
- ③ 過去問: 慶應義塾大学 商学部 英語 (過去 5 年分) から長文 1 題を選び、本日の手法で精読する。

【次回授業】 慶應商の英作文 (200 words 程度) — "Should Japanese corporations prioritize shareholders or stakeholders?" の論理構成

【最後にひとこと】

慶應商の英語は (A) 語学試験 であると同時に (B) 経営学リテラシー試験。本問の corporate-governance 論は、入学後に学ぶ経営戦略・会計・ファイナンスの核心テーマ。

第10章 (発展 — ESG 投資と日本企業への接続・5 分)

本問の論点が日本企業統治にどう響くかを考える発展編。

【発展題】 日本のコンテキストでこの議論はどう響くか？

本文は米国を中心とした議論だが、日本企業にも以下の形で影響している：

★ ①伊藤レポート (2014)

経済産業省「持続的成長への競争力とインセンティブ」報告書。日本企業の (A) ROE 8% 目標を提示し、shareholder value 重視への転換を促した。Friedman 系の典型政策。

★ ②東京証券取引所のガバナンスコード (2015 / 2018 改訂)

取締役会の (B) 多様性確保 / 独立社外取締役の増加 / ESG 開示を要求。Friedman 一元 → stakeholder 多元への揺らぎを制度化。

★ ③ESG 投資の機関化

GPIF (年金積立金管理運用独立行政法人) が 2017 年から ESG 投資を採用。 (C) 長期的株主としての年金基金が「短期的株主」批判を実体化。

★ ④日本的経営の歴史的位置

日本企業は伝統的に (D) 従業員 / 取引先 / 地域社会を含む multi-stakeholder 経営を実践 (終身雇用・系列・メインバンク制)。本文の Friedman 説は、日本企業文化とそもそも親和的でなかった。1990 年代以降の「日本企業の grobal 化」とは、ある意味で (A) Friedman 化でもあった。

★ 商学部での学習対象

- ・「日本企業は Friedman 化に向かったが、本場の米国が方向転換し始めた」という時間的ズレ
- ・「日本的経営 = 古い」ではなく、「現代 stakeholder 理論の早期実践」と再評価する流れ
- ・卒論候補: 日本企業の従業員賃金停滞と shareholder value 論の関係

【最終メッセージ】

本問のような英文を読めれば、日本の経済紙 (日経新聞・週刊ダイヤモンド・東洋経済) の特集記事も同じ枠組みで理解できる。受験英語は、将来のビジネスリテラシーの土台。